PLOW SHARPENING

We can grind your old plow point and it will give you as much service as a new one. You will be surprised.

Cutting Harrows

Sharpened.

We have a machine to sharpen cutting harrows. This reduces the draft on your team and improves the amount of work, for you are losing time and money by using a dull tool.

Repairing Of Farm Tools.

Don't throw away your Plows, Cutting Harrows, Binders, Mowers, Rakes, Etc., until you have us look them over. We can save you money by repairing them.

We Are The Farmers Friend.

If you have a break down or any trouble with your implements, you can save time and money by consulting us, as there are so many things that we can repair and you don't have to wait to order from factory.

CONN BROTHERS

Local Items.

TO DELINQUENTS.

You have been warned by our predecessor concerning the Postal Law, by which a paper will not be carried through the mails that is one year in arrears on subscription. Call at office on court day and settle.

Court House Saturday night, February 27th.

Circuit Court will convene Monday March first, instead of the second Monday as heretofore, the date having been changed.

Hear Her.

Mrs. Beauchamp will lecture at Buena Vista the 26th; Paint Lick the 27th and Lancaster the 28th. She was reared in Garrard and we bespeak for her a large crowd.

Fire Escape.

Haselden Brothers have just completed the fire escape in the Kengarian. All guests will feel more comfortable now, as they will have two exits in case of fire, the escape being on North side and the large stair-way in the South side.

R. H. Swoffield of The Globe Tailoring Co., of Cincinnati will have on display at H. T. Logan's store Friday and Saturday of this week his beautiful line of spring and summer suitings. Mr. Swoffield is a high class cutter having been brought up in the business. He has many friends and customers here who are always glad to see him.

A Good One.

During a recent small-pox epidemic of the large southern cities a general vaccination crusade was undertaken. An old colored woman, who worked in a laundry, declared it was positively out of the question for her to have a lame arm.

"Well, auntie," said the doctor, "I will vaccinate you on one of your lower limbs, so it won't interfere with your work."

"No siree," said auntie; "I can't spare one of my legs; neither."

"Well, what spot could you spare, because you must be vaccinated?"

The old colored woman thought and thought, and finally said slowly:

"Well—Lord knows—I don't never get no chance to set down."

Mrs. Mose Miller left Tuesday for Arkansas to see her sister, who is very ill.

The City Council is treating the streets to a coat of splendid metal, which was much needed.

The docket for circuit court will be very small—about twenty-five appearances, and not much commonwealth business.

The Cooper trial is going on at Nashville and sensational testimony is being introduced, some details of which will be given next issue.

The ladies of the city gave Miss Julia Reid a donation party, at her home on water street, and gifts were bountifully bestowed.

We learn as we go to press that Mr. Mike Simpson, an aged and worthy citizen, died near Teatersville and the remains were buried in Lancaster cemetery, Thursday.

"Overlooked Realities of Religion."

A series of discourses under above topic beginning at Lancaster Methodist Church next Sunday 11 a. m.; also on Sunday night 7:15 prompt. Services by the pastor, Sunday School subject, Acts 6; "Stephen the Martyr."

Dangerously Ill.

Don Goodloe, a highly respected colored man of this place, is dangerously ill of tuberculosis at the home of his son-in-law, George Leavell. He is the father of Speed Goodloe, of Danville, who is principal of a large colored school.

Hear Them

Madame Alice Myron whose rich contralto voice is wonderful, Miss Anderson, the pianist, who is a graduate of Berlin, Mr. Braumberger, a baritone with all the necessary qualifications and Earl Smith, the violinist, who is widely known through the United States, will be heard by every one at the Court House, Saturday night, February 27th.

Denton—Ummethun.

Information has been received here of the marriage of Miss Nan Denton James at her home in Lexington. The wedding occurred on Sunday at the Calvary Baptist church, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. Mr. Arkwright, of Georgetown. The groom was Alfred Howard Ummethun, also of Lexington. Miss James and mother, Mrs. Annie James, were residents of Lancaster for a number of years.

Stole a Load of Hemp.

R. M. West bought a load of hemp from Miller Brothers, colored, of Lincoln county, which had been stolen from John Foster. Miller is in jail in Stanford awaiting action of the grand jury. Mr. West caught the negro before he got out of town, recovered his $30.80 which he paid him for the hemp and made him get on the wagon and take the hemp back to the owner. When theft like this occurs, do you think your residence and farm are safe from such folks, if they could get it on a wagon?

In The Philippines.

We are proud of the following from the Philippines: Lieut. Edward L. Conn who has recently been placed in command of the 2nd company Nueva Ecija Philippines Constabulary, promises to become one of the most efficient of the younger officers in the corps. The rapid improvement in drill and discipline of this already crack company since his taking command bids fair to make it one of the best companies in the service. Ed is a son of "Uncle" Tram Conn, whom every one knows, being one of Garrard's best citizens.

Grand Success.

It seems useless to mention the splendid entertainment given with home talent, by Miss Nell Johnson, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Society, for it looked as if every man woman and child who claim Garrard county their home, were present. The gross receipts were $125. It was real lucky that the night was a dark and rainy one, for there was hardly room to stand and if it had been a better night, everyone would have been uncomfortably crowded. From the grand opening to the last act all executed their part without an error. The "between act" specialties were most enjoyable and in more than one instance were brought back, by applause, three times. The ladies would have been safe in announcing: "Money back to all who think they haven't their moneys worth."

Educational Addresses.

We have just arranged with President Crossfield of Transylvania University to furnish us five popular educational addresses, by as many different speakers. These addresses will begin in March and will be given at intervals of about two weeks, till the close of school in May. We should like to have these addresses in the school Chapel, but if they shall be attended as we hope they may, it will be necessary to secure a place with greater seating capacity.

Dates will be announced very soon for the entire course, and as soon as the announcement is made tickets for the five lectures can be procured by applying to the principal. The tickets will be presented absolutely without cost to the High School pupils, to all the patrons, and to every friend of the school who will agree to come to these lectures.

Very sincerely,
D. W. Bridges, Principal,
Lancaster Graded School.

Miss Stella Hill, of Cincinnati, will trim for Mrs. Ada Kinnaird, this season.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Belle Burnside.

The Anti-Saloon League is in session in Louisville and heavy pressure will be brought to bear on Governor Willson to do his duty.

Teacher's Money.

The County School Superintendent has received the information that the money due last Saturday will not be ready for payment for two weeks.

Eld Crossfield, of Transylvania University, delivered an excellent lecture at the Christian church, Sunday, on "The Ideals of Education," by which much valuable information was imparted.

Buy in Fayette.

Mr. George T. Higinbotham, for years sheriff of Garrard county, as well as one of her most prosperous farmers, has recently bought a very handsome farm in Fayette county. It is known as the Wm. Fields farm which is comprised of 143 acres and the price paid was $200 per acre.

Cincinnati To Lancaster.

J. L. Gill, who recently purchased a Chalmers Detroit Automobile, in Cincinnati, left here last Thursday with John Simpson, Geo. Harris and J. W. Sweeney for the Queen City to bring his new machine home. They made the trip with much satisfaction, finding the car as represented. As automobiles are getting plentiful, it would be well for those who use horses to take a day off and get their horses accustomed to them.

School Entertainment.

On Friday, February 12, the pupils of the Graded School gave an entertainment in honor of the one hundredth anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's birth.

The exercises consisted of songs, dialogues, recitations, and original papers, all bearing upon some phase of Lincoln's life and character. Such exercises serve to impress on the minds of the pupils the worth of this great President, whose loyalty to duty preserved the Union of the States.

The school chapel was crowded with the friends and patrons of the school.

Facts For Consideration.

Could the patrons of our school but come in and spend a day with us when the thermometer is showing a freezing temperature we would not need to tell them how poorly our rooms are heated. A red hot stove in the center of the room almost blisters those pupils who have a place near the stove and yet fails to make comfortably warm those who happen to be seated farthest away. It would be criminal for the teachers not to permit pupils to change their places in the room in their efforts to keep comfortable. This takes the time of both teacher and pupils. Besides, pupils thus congregated about the stove waste much valuable time; some, because a good opportunity is afforded for shirking duty; others, who wish to study and yet are hindered by those who are not studying.

Thus the effectiveness of school work is reduced, at least, one fourth. The cost of maintaining our school is about $600 a month. The result, therefore, due to our primitive method of heating, is a waste of time which costs $150 or more a month during the winter months. As a matter of economy, then, our method of heating should be changed.

But, we cannot estimate the loss to pupils in unimproved time, and in the formation of the habit of "killing time" as well as in injury to health. Take this from Dr. Rembert an authority on the subject of sanitation: "The ordinary unjacketed stove, such as is often used in school rooms should not be tolerated. It does not give a general heat to the room and it does not assist ventilation sufficiently, but, on the contrary, consumes a great amount of oxygen in the room that is needed by the pupils for breathing; it gives off carbon dioxide, and when burning, coal gives off also sulphurous acid gas, which is very poisonous and irritating. These are not chief faults, however. On account of the resulting poor ventilation the air is breathed and rebreathed by the pupils and teacher until it is extremely debilitating, the effects of which are lasting."

Another specialist on this subject, Dr. Burrage, says: "The aqueous vapor arising from the breath and from the general surface of the body contains a minute proportion of the animal refuse matter which has been proved by actual experiment to be a deadly poison. It is the substance which gives the peculiar, close, unpleasant smell which is perceived on leaving the fresh air and entering a confined space occupied by human beings and animals, and air thus charged has been fully proved to be the great cause of scrofulous, or tubercular diseases."

Shall we accept what scientists say, and make haste to remedy our conditions; or, will we refuse to believe, and when the plague stalks into our homes charge our own neglect to the workings of a mysterious providence.

Very sincerely,
D. W. Bridges, Principal,
Lancaster Graded School.

Flower Sale.

The Ladies of the Baptist Aid Society will have a flower sale in the early spring. Orders will be taken at any time, and the exact date of sale will be announced later.

Freddie—"Say, wouldn't you like to have three eyes?"

George—"Yes."

Freddie—"Where'd you have the other eye?"

George—"I'd have it in the back of my head."

Freddie—"You would? I wouldn't."

George—"Where would you have your other eye?"

Freddie—"Why, I'd have it in the end of my thumb so I could poke it through a knot-hole in the fence and see the ball game for nothin'."

Dress Materials For Spring.

Of the materials which will be used for spring, worsteds will be in much evidence, and, together with them, plain weaves such as broadcloths, cashmeres and serges. Black, trimmed with white will be seen on some women of the most exclusive taste. Black, as a general thing, will be much used. Among colors, however, the most popular will be different shades of blue and the grays which have been introduced this winter will be repeated in the spring fabrics.—The March Designer.

Best Yet.

The I. O. O. F. in their series of entertainments has not disappointed any one, and as the best is yet to come we predict a crowded house. The Grand Concert company, which will be heard in the court house on Saturday night, February 27 is recognized by the press as one of the highest class entertainments on the road. Below are clippings from the press: "The recital given by Miss Palma Anderson developed into an enthusiastic ovation. Many who were present at the recital declare that Miss Anderson is little less than a prodigy of musical talent and ability." "Madame Alice Myron was easily the distinguished feature of the evening, and her magnificent contralto was heard to good advantage in the role assigned to her. She is a musician of much emotion, and she uses her voice with skill." "Mr. Karl Smith handled the difficult instrument with a confidence that can only belong to a genius." "Mr. Bramberger is one of the best equipped persons who ever undertook his line of work. He has a voice so mellow, deep and musical that without effort he moves his audience at will."

Grand Concert.

The lovers of music will have an opportunity to hear musicians who have completed their course in Berlin, by going to the Grand Concert at Court House, February 27th.

Accidental.

While engaged in a game of marbles during which, as usual, the boys began "scrambling", Cecil Brown, son of Boge Brown, suffered a broken arm, accidentally. We are glad to know that he is resting easy.

They Call For Seven And Up Came Heron.

Chief of Police Heron has suspected for some time that gambling was being done in "The Old Ark". On Saturday night about twelve thirty, he made a quick run up the stairway, hearing a noise as he approached the room, the parties attempting to conceal any sign of gaming. On entering the room he found a die on the table two different parties had dice and money in their hands, which made the circumstantial evidence overwhelming against the five colored men in the room. He arrested them and when tried, due notice will be given. "Crap shooters" should articulate more clearly when calling for "seven".

A Plan To Raise Money For Your Church.

A plan for raising money for church purposes which has been successfully worked by women in many places is known as "the year" plan. It seems to be a little complicated, but it is really quite simple. The initiative is taken by one woman who calls herself "the year." "The year" is responsible for ten dollars toward the fund she wishes to raise. She then finds twelve women who are known as "months." They are designated by the calendar names, such as "Mrs. January," "Mrs. February," etc. The next step is for each "month" to find four women who will serve as "weeks." Each week is to find seven "days." In working out the financial part the "months" give ten dollars, the "weeks" five dollars, and the "days" one dollar each. Once the "months" have been secured, the competition and fun begin, for "Mrs. July" is finding her "weeks." Then as soon as the "weeks" have been found, the excitement runs still higher, for there is still more competition. Fifty-two "weeks" will be hunting for three hundred and sixty-five "days." When the last "day" has been found, there will be quite a sum in hand.—The March Designer.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

To the Democratic party of the 13th Judicial District: I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge of this district. I prefer a primary election.
M. C. SAUFLEY.

We are authorized to announce Hon.
Chas. A. Hardin, of Harrodsburg, as a candidate for re-nomination for the office of Commonwealth Attorney for the 13th Judicial District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Two things threaten the perpetuity and the welfare of our nation, and unless conditions change another generation will witness our downfall. Heed the prophecy, for it is made after calm and dispassionate consideration. The complications, which exist in reference to immigrants, will become more general and serious trouble will arise.
The character of immigrants is not acceptable to our natives and, unless much greater restrictions are enforced good citizenship will revolt to prevent the corruption that would follow—as pure water would become foul if stagnant water flows into it. You had an well try to mix water and oil. When our standard of excellence is lowered our national strength will be diminished in proportion.

Another great danger lies in the unlawful aggregation of wealth, as manifested in what is called trusts, whereby men of limited means are put out of business, and there is a congestion, of the circulating medium, to one section, which produces national death, as congestion of blood to one part of the human system produces physical death. The analogy is perfect, and remedies should be used to prevent congestion, even if it takes a dose of confiscation.

We quote the following from the President's message on Country Life, in which we heartily concur:

First, effective co-operation among farmers, to put them on a level with the organized interests with which they do business.

Second, a new kind of schools in the country, which shall teach the children as much outdoors as indoors and perhaps more, so that they will prepare for country life, and not as at present, mainly for life in town.

Third, better means of communication, including good roads and a parcels post, which the country people everywhere, are rightly, unanimous in demanding.

To these may well be added better sanitation; for easily preventable diseases hold several millions country people in the slavery of continuous ill health.

Mr. M. S. Baughman will contest the nomination of Mr. W. L. McCarty, who on the face of the returns was nominated for sheriff in the primary Saturday by a majority of 14. Mr.
Baughman charges many irregularities, such as voting republicans and men who do not live in Lincoln county. He has engaged the services of Messrs. P. M. McRoberts and George B. Saufley to represent him.—Interior Journal.

While we do not favor contests, as a rule, yet, if the charges are true, Baughman should win, not only to secure his own rights but for the good of the party, which would be ruined by such corruption, and every good democrat should see that justice is done.

Petitions are being circulated here and elsewhere, asking Gov. Wilson to call an extra session of the Legislature to consider the passage of the county-units bill. It is hoped that these petitions and the work of the Anti Saloon League will have the desired effect; for both parties are pledged to the passage of the bill and, if the Legislature meets free from any complication, the bill will pass. If the Governor has changed his mind, he should remember that he is a public servant, and he is obligated to do the will of the people, just as any agent is bound to do the will of the principal.

Lincoln day is over, the people are at business again, the earth rolls her ample rounds, the sun emits his effulgent beams, and every blessing is bestowed by an indulgent God, to whom alone all adoration is due. It is eminently fitting that we should remember those, who have rendered valuable public service, by appropriate ceremonies, but we should not forget the source from whence we receive even life and every blessing. Let us contribute funds to place the name of Jehovah above all beings in the universe, and send his word to every heavenly land.

Corruption and graft in office is manifested in many places, and now Col. Jack Chinn makes serious charges against the management of the State prison. Let all such charges be investigated.

The announcement that Col. Henry Waterson has decided never to appear before the public again as a lecturer, on account of his recent bereavement, is a source of deep regret to the public.

Tillman's pitch-fork put Crum out of business.

Could Not Eat.

some of them could not eat; We poured Bourbon Poultry Cure down them and did not have a single fowl to die."

In The Wrong Few.

Uncle Hiram, Deggs, who lived in a certain "ex mining" town in Eastern Kentucky, was very fond of his toddy and on several occasions was twitted by the boys about town because when in his cups he was unable to locate his home, which was one of a row of miners' houses all as much alike as peas in a pod. One afternoon in the only boozie joint in the town, Uncle Hiram was bragging that he had the matter so arranged now that he could find his own home no matter how dark the night or how big the "jag" on board.
He explained that he had placed a big boulder at the front gate and that when he "stubbed his toe" against the boulder he would know that he was at home. The boys all declared that it was a capital scheme and assured him that he would have no more trouble in finding his own fireside in the future.
Meantime some one in the crowd went out and gave a small boy a dime to move Uncle Hiram's boulder two doors farther down the street to the front gate of a worthless fellow named Dave Skinner. When the time came for Uncle Hiram to go home he was somewhat the worse for liquor, but confident of his ability to make a landing. Going on until he came to his boulder, he went in and finding Dave in possession and supposing that Dave was visiting him he proceeded to try to make Skinner feel welcome. When supper time arrived all marched out to the kitchen and sat down to a rather scant meal, poorly prepared. In true mountain style Uncle Hiram told Dave that "all the vittles on this table was to be eat. So just help yourselves and don't use no manners." All present "fell to with a right hearty good will," except Uncle Hiram, who, in spite of his jag, saw that something was wrong, although it never occurred to him that he was anywhere except in his own home. Several times he straightened up as if in the act of saying something, but each time relapsed into silence. Finally, seeming unable to stand the strain any longer, he looked at Dave and said: Dave, I am no hand to apologize, but I have been housekeeping thirty six years and this is the poorest snack the old woman has got together in all that time."

his son, Robin Cooper, and John D.
Sharp for the murder of former Senator Edward W. Carnack, has at last been secured at Nashville, Tenn., and the taking of testimony will begin

Mr. Lovering made reply in the House to Mr. Rainey's charges of fraud in connection with the purchase of the Panama canal. Mr. Lovering defended William Nelson Cromwell and said the charges had been instigated by ex-convicts. He also made allegations of attempted blackmail.

About the most unique Lincoln celebration in the United States was at Hamburg stock farm, in Fayette county, where Nancy Hanks, the famous race mare, named for Abraham Lincoln's mother, held a largely-attended "reception" under the auspices of her owner, John E. Madden.

Nearly three hundred people were burned to death Sunday when the Flores Theater, of Acapulco, Mex., was destroyed, several Americans being among the victims. The telegraph office was burned, and the news of the disaster was not received in Mexico City until Monday.

Dr. E. L. Powell, pastor of the First Christian church, of Louisville, Kentucky in a sermon Sunday, on the subject: "Was Abraham Lincoln a Christian?" did not answer his question, but left no doubt in the minds of his hearers that he looked upon Lincoln as a true Christian character.

United States Senator Isaac Stephenson, through his agents, expended $107,793.05 as a candidate for the nomination for the office of United States Senator from Wisconsin incident to the primary election held on September 1, 1908. This is shown in his official statement filed with the Secretary of State.

Three robbers held-up a Denver and Rio Grand passenger train Saturday and secured possibly $35,000, including eighteen packages of registered mail.
The robbery was remarkable for its originality and daring. It took place within eight miles of Denver within less than two miles of Fort Logan, the United States Military Reservation, and at the spot where habitations are plentiful.

The birth place of Jefferson Davis President of the Southern Confederacy, at Fairview, in Todd county, Ky., will be dedicated as a shrine for the South on June 3 next, the 101st anniversary of his birth. It is understood that plans for an observance of the occasion similar to that at the Lincoln birthplace are being prepared. The Jefferson Davis Memorial Association has sufficient funds to erect a handsome memorial building.

The value of wireless telegraphy as an adjunct to the operation of the machinery of justice was demonstrated when John Ryan, seaman on board the United States ship New Hampshire was placed under arrest and confined to the ship's brig, at the request of District Attorney Winslow, of West Chester county, flashed to the New Hampshire by wireless while that vessel was several hundred miles out at sea on her way to meet the American battleship fleet. Ryan is wanted for alleged participation in a burglary committed last May at Ossining, N.
Y. One of the burglars, upon being arrested turned State's evidence and implicated Ryan.

Lincoln day was observed throughout the United States and in many foreign capitals. Probably thousands of meetings were held in cities, towns and hamlets, with varying programmes of exercises. The principal celebration was that at the Lincoln birthplace farm near Hodgenville, where President Roosevelt laid the cornerstone of the memorial hall that is to be erected around the Lincoln cabin.
The President delivered an address and there were speeches by Gov. Wilson, former Gov. Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri; Secretary of War Luke E.
Wright, and Gen. James G. Wilson.
The exercises attracted a crowd of several thousand people, despite the fact that the day was disagreeable from a weather standpoint.

The Kentucky Court of Appeals handed down an opinion which means a loss of thousands of dollars to tobacco growers and others whose crops and barns and other property were destroyed during the raids of night riders in the past two years. In reversing the Caldwell Circuit Court in the case of five insurance companies against the Imperial Tobacco Company, the court upheld the validity of the "riot clause" of policies written in Kentucky, and held that the raids of the night riders come within the meaning of the term "riot." The Imperial Tobacco Company sued to recover for insurance carried on tobacco and barns destroyed by nightriders at Princeton, Caldwell county, November 30, 1906.

The lower court gave judgment for insurance.

BUCKEYE.

Mr. Herbert Whitaker sold a horse to Again the death angle has come into our midst and claimed for his own, the wife of Mr. George Ray, who had been a patient sufferer of consumption for some time. She was confined to her bed for seven weeks and was constantly surrounded by loved ones to minister to every want. As she would see their eyes moistened with grief, she would beg them not to weep for she was not suffering just patiently waiting for the summons of her Master, which came in the early morning of February 14, 1908. As the heavy eyelashes dropped softly on the pure cheek, as if in natural sleep, she made one more call to her husband, who had been so faithful and kind to her, and said: "I am going now, meet me in glory", then she gained the victory, without the battle. Farwell loved one the bright eternal doors have closed after her; we shall see thy sweet face no more. To the kind husband, father, mother and relatives we say: Weep not for her whom the veil of tomb in lives early morning, hath hid from our eyes. Rev. O. P. Bush conducted the funeral services, in the Buckeye church and the remains were interred in the Lancaster cemetery.

We saw Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss
Ethel and as they did not note us raising our cap we can't claim any discourtesy on their part and were rejoiced that the brave ladies helped in the consecration. Now to me the consecration was only partial, that a great mistake was made and I call upon the officers of the association to rectify it would have been priceless souvenirs, a day. I venture to say the President and his immediate party never even saw the spring, for I saw them on arrival and departure and when it is called to his mind he will raise the big stick and in a sweeping circle some one will rue the day. I was tempted to call out that such was done when the crowd closed down upon him and the charm was passed.

Lancaster Federal Veterans Attend
The Lincoln Centenary.

The following excerpts are taken from the diary of one of three charter members, of the Lincoln Farm Association, who attended the Dedication, on the 12th inst, of the one hundredth anniversary of his birth. By the way they went not to be observed, but to observe and to be single units in the Great Pageant there assembled, representative of all the forces that go to make our civilization, the foremost to earth and to forever consecrate and make hallowed to all future generations a lonely spot, to inspire patriotism and love of country, as he, the object of this celebration, was endowed and tried in the crucible the most cruel and exacting, who deviated neither to the right or the left or swerved from the purpose of re-establishing the Union of the states in irrevocable bonds, to the intent that liberty should not perish from the earth.

The day might not have been ideal, as some might suggest, as the day of judgment, for which all other days were made will to some be deplorable, but it was representative of the life of Lincoln.

The elements were active, the absence of dust was noticeable, it was not too cold neither too hot, it might have been damper, it might have been windier. The soil was such that all could carry a memento away with out being accused of petit larceny. Even the sun shown at times and finally a calm spread its serene influence over all and the last act of consecration was over.

It was an impressive day, some will forget, some act, others will forget something else, all will forget something, but none will forget all. There were two distinct consecrating parties on the ground that day, at the same time, and whose purposes were identical and no mental reservations in im-teal.

The little matter of seagrass formed and fashioned into cables made the deviding lines, superinduced by police regulations, backed by a secret service, an army militia with improved rifles, and a great show of big banded, buttoned and starred policemen, mounted on steeds that would starve to death in a week's time if given full range of all that consecrated land.

Whether those cables were to keep the ins from going out or to keep the outs from going in I never inquired, but my observation was that a lady sickened and in a manner swooned when borne from the jam it took the corporeal of the guard to open the way for her exit. Of course we saw the personal of official dignity arrayed in different regalia and could distinguish the rigid eagle of the army from the gold lace and cables of the navy. It required no marks to distinguish the President, in fact he could not have been lost had he broke over the cables.
Of course the Folks and the Wilsons and the Wrights, even Dr. Bixley whom we saw called into Lincoln's cabin to minister to some dear woman who was in danger of passing to the great beyond, a silver embossed flask was sought and found and when unscrewed and in the great doctor's hand doubtless relief was instantaneous and as drier resort they all take it.

We saw Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss
Ethel and as they did not note us
courtesy on their part and were re-
the consecration. Now to me the con-

Clergymen Are Scarce.

The reluctance of men to take holy orders in the Church of England, which is so noticeable a feature at the present time, is a matter of more than ecclesiastical interest. A considerable amount of hemp has been delivered in Mercer county at 85.50 per hundred, however there are many who say they will hold the 1908 crop for higher prices, the above price being much less than was paid for 1907 crop.

It will certainly be worth any farmers time and money to attend the State Farmers Institute, at Elizabethtown February 24, 25 and 26. Possibly the announcement, that two able women lecturers have been obtained to make talks, will make more men want to attend. We are sorry that space will not permit us to publish the program, which contains the names of many experts in all branches.

Tobacco is now raised in every country, but the United States leads all.
Germany produces 60,000,000 pounds, Persia 100,000,000, Turkey 45,000,000, Japan 40,000,000, India 550,000,000, the United States 682,000,000. Of this Kentucky produces 250,000,000, and Tennessee 34,000,000.

In 1905 the value of our tobacco product was over $300,000,000. The tobacco consumed was over 448,000,000 pounds, the number of cigars consumed was over 7,000,000,000 and of cigarettes over 3,000,000,000, while over 307-000,000 pounds were used in the manufacture of chewing tobacco, smoking tobacco and snuff.

In answer to Robert T. Quisenberry, of Danville, Ky., in regard to the value of soy beans for dairy cattle, W. D.
Nichols, of the Kentucky Experiment station, says in the Kentucky Farmer that soy beans make an excellent crop for hay, which, on account of its high protein contents, is especially valuable for feeding dairy cows.
Very few dairy men in Kentucky, however, have made a practice of growing soy beans, most of them using the cow pea instead. My own experience with cow peas is more extensive than with soy beans, though I have found both excellent sources of forage for milk production. Personally, I prefer the cow pea for hay on account of its stems not being so stiff and know as those of the soy bean. I know dairymen, however, who have obtained as good results with soy beans as with cow peas. In our own dairy work we find our annual crop of cow peas indispensable.

Soy beans for hay should not be sown until danger of frost is past, preferably the second or third week in May. They are usually sown with an ordinary wheat drill, nearly all of which are adapted for sowing peas and soy beans. The rate of seeding is from one to one and a quarter bushels to the acre, drilled as for wheat. If planted in rows, about half this amount is required. The grain drill is used, enough holes being stopped up between the holes left open to allow 32 inch spaces between the rows. Seven or eight seed to the foot should be dropped.
Cultivation will consist of two or three shallow plowings with the cultivator.
As the plants grow coarser and are sown with more difficulty when planted in rows, the method of planting first described is to be preferred when hay is the object, though the second method is better when the soy beans are intended for seed or for silage.

Both cow pea and soy bean, on account of the large amount of water in the stem and pod, require great care in curing. It is usually unsafe to stack or put them in the barn sooner than four days after cutting. Soy beans should be cut for hay when in full bloom; cow peas when a considerable proportion of the pods have ripened. Both cow peas and soy beans have the same power of improving the fertility of the soil which red clover possesses. The nodule, or small ball-like objects upon the roots, contain within them myriads of minute living organisms, or bacteria, which have the power of using the free nitrogen of the air and adding large quantities of nitrogenous fertilizers to the soil.

The Secret of Long Life.
A French scientist has discovered one secret of long life. His method deals with the blood. But long ago millions of Americans had proved Electric Bitters prolongs life and makes it worth living. It purifies, enriches and vitalizes the blood, rebuilds wasted nerve cells, imparts life and tone to the entire system. It is a godsend to weak, sick and debilitated people.
"Kidney trouble had blighted my life for months," writes W. M. Sherman, of Cushing, Me., "but Electric Bitters cured me entirely." Only 50c. at R. E.

Knowledge and Idleness.
It is no more possible for an idle man to keep together a certain stock of knowledge than it is possible to keep together a stock of ice exposed to the meridian sun. Every day destroys a fact, a relation, or an influence; and the only method of preserving the bulk and value of the pile is by constantly adding to it.—Sidney Smith.

When Society Decays.
The prosperity of a people is proportionate to the number of hands and minds usefully employed. To the community, sedition is a fever, corruption is a gangrene, and idleness is an atrophy. Whatever body or society wastes more than it acquires, must gradually decay; and every being that continues to be fed, and ceases to labor, takes away something from the public stock.—Samuel Johnson.

TIBERIUS SMITH

"I hate to be so low and ornery even in this kind of a mill," he remonstrated, palming it with all his old-time, parlor-magic grace.

"Remember the tow-head," I urged.
"Glumme it," he growled, forgetting he had already made it disappear.

"Chief Chuck now lunged forward, not waiting for the word. His eyes were bloodshot and nosepegs flicked his mouth. I could see he had discarded all frills and fancies and meant just plain, ugly business. In a second they were a revolving wheel of legs and arms.

"Soak him!" I howled, dancing up and down, and suddenly the bunch fell into two pieces, and each piece finally quieted down and resolved itself into a man. Tib was the man standing.

"I feel kind of cheap," he grinned, feebly.

"But, dear, dear! If you only could have seen Chuck! He sat perfectly quiet, gazing abstractly at a tree, only moving to cautiously place his hand on his jaw. And the astonished crowd saw the swathy flesh puff out to the size of an orange. You see, sir, Tib had been unable to really injure his iron frame and bullet head heretofore.
He had made him smart, had pestered him, but he hadn't really weakened him any. That smash on the jaw with the hammer-head was like having the elevated hit you. And the mob, always having believed him invincible, couldn't understand it.

"When he staggered to his feet he lurched to Tib with open hands, and sorrowfully and carefully examined the death dealing knuckles. Then he shook his head gingerly and croaked:
'Big medicine. White man's Shaman is great spirit!'

"I'm a Methodist," said Tib, grimly, keeping this brass knuckle from all human ken.

"Methodist big medicine," repeated Chuck simply, walking back to his corner with a slightly swollen, erratic gait. 'Dam big medicine!'

"One of his henchmen speedily brought him a case bottle of cheap rum, and after gawwaling the greater portion of this he began to change his mind a bit and protest that the Seal Shaman overstepped any Methodist by several yards. And cracking his heels together to show he was still in fine fettle, he rushed to drag Tib from his corner. It was at this critical point, sir, that Tib delivered his famous sprocket-wheel swing, the blow that lamed his shoulder for a year.

"For, just as Chuck sank almost to one knee in letting drive his slawey left, Tib sprang two feet into the air and swung his terrible battling right in a complete circle and brought it down, palm outward, squarely on top of the astonished, barbarous slugger's thick-thatched cranium, not once, but thrice. The hammer-head projected from the fist for an inch. Chuck simply rolled over on his side with one deep groan, and his children howled in horror.

"One, two, three," panted Tib, standing over his foe and accompanying each count-out numeral with a trembling sweep of his fat forefinger.

"O wow! ow!" groaned the heathens.

"Four, five," continued Tib, firmly.
"O wow! owee! Shaman! O-u-g-h!" wailed the fat-faced audience, praying in vain to their totem poles.

"Da, da, da," gurgled the baby, as his custodian rolled it into the ring so to speak, freedom of motion to beat her head against the hideously carved wooden pillars.

"Six, seven," added Tib, remorselessly, stooping quickly and picking up the cowering puer.

"Faster, faster! Give him the count in a rush!" I screamed, entirely losing my head.

"Eight, nine," the old chap called, now counting more slowly in rebuke to me, thus giving the prostrate chief a fair chance to rally.

"And the tribe, thinking he was pumping more evil-spring tonic into his leader, began supplicating him with a medley of sounds to quit his magic.

"Ten—and out!" cried Tib, hugging the baby close.

"Down and out! Hoorary!" I yelled, cutting an intricate pigeon wing, much to the kid's felicitation.

"Out?" groaned Mr. McBurn, thickly, staggering to his feet. "Say, white man, what did it? What brought the darkness?" And in awe and with something akin to reverence he lightly stroked the cluster of horns on the top of his head. For the trio of blows had caused as many little mounds peaks to push up the coarse, black hair.

"Big medicine," replied Tib, setting the baby on his shoulder and jumping over the ropes.

"The spectators instinctively started to stop us, but Chuck, being a square sport, once the battle had been fought, hung dizzily to the ropes and with bowing head waved them back. 'Let them all go. Methodist! Big medicine!' he muttered.

"Owee! owee!" coughed the tribe. "And with the tot in his arms my patron led the way down the Little Seal until we found the men and the boat. I looked back once and saw that Chief Chuck McBurn was still clinging to the ropes of the ring, while his children seemed intent on packing up and moving away. Maybe they were deserting a leader whose medicine was so weak, but it was almost pathetic to see the big man lingering on the scene of his downfall.

"And although we never went back for the gold, and although that was the only time Tib ever shield his castor into a ring, he always regrets he had to use the hammer-head, until I reminded him of the boy baby kicking up his heels in his father's home in Tuvak.
